Clark Atlanta University
“Student-Centered, Quality-Driven”

“Overcoming Challenges to Achieving and Sustaining Excellence”

OPENING ACTIVITIES
Spring Semester 2009
January 6, 2009

Dr. Carlton E. Brown
President
January 6, 2009

Dear Colleagues:

It is my pleasure to welcome you back to Clark Atlanta University for the beginning of the Spring 2009 Semester. I sincerely hope that each of you has enjoyed a high-quality Holiday Season and that you were able to find moments to reconnect with family and friends and to renew your faith, your energy and your strength.

It is no longer possible to avoid the realization that our nation, indeed the entire world, is undergoing serious economic hardships at this time. All indicators of economic health are continuing a downward trend. All of us are struggling to move forward with fewer resources, with families who are challenged by the loss of employment, investment and resources.

Clark Atlanta University must also face the reality of diminishing resources and financial difficulty even as we plan for growth and development. We want you to know that we are paying very close attention to our own conditions and will need to engage with you early in this semester in our planning for a very uncertain future.

We will continue to press forward with our CAuPRI. Many elements of the changed processes are in implementation stage. We will also continue to work with you for the continual improvement of our infrastructure and internal services. In the meantime, I am looking forward to a strong beginning to this new semester.

Sincerely,

Carlton E. Brown
President

The mission of Clark Atlanta University is to provide a quality undergraduate, graduate and professional education to a student body that is predominantly African-American and also diversified by students from various other racial, ethnic, cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds. As an institution grounded in the liberal arts, the University is committed to the development of productive and creative students who excel in their chosen careers and who become responsible citizens in their communities and the world.

To achieve its mission, the University attracts and maintains a dedicated faculty that meets high professional standards in teaching, scholarship, research, and service. The University also provides an educational environment in which its students thrive, learn, and develop their potential for leadership and responsible citizenship, and the pursuit and creation of knowledge.

The University maintains an historic relationship with the United Methodist Church and emphasizes sound ethical and moral principles that promote personal integrity and understanding of others.
