

Southwest Arts Center presents

KENNY LEON'S

true colors

THEATRE COMPANY

Pearl Cleage's

directed by Andrea Frye

featuring

Jasmine Guy

It's 1930 Harlem, and torch singer Angel Allen's auditions and dreams are fading as quickly as the bright lights and creative euphoria of the Harlem Renaissance, giving way to the harsh realities of the Great Depression. Tired of "Negro Dreams", she thinks safety lies on the broad back of the new stranger in town. But people are starting to get mean and the Harlem night is no place for a southern boy with romantic notions of "Alabama skies where the stars are so thick it's bright as day". The tragic landscape of poverty and the redeeming quality of hope are illuminated in this beautiful comic drama.

HBCU Night at Miss Evers' Boys

Thursday, May 7, 2009, 8 p.m.

Southwest Arts Center, 915 New Hope Road, Atlanta, GA 30331

Save $10 per ticket for HBCU Night when you mention or enter: HBCU

(Code valid for full priced adult tickets, normally $30 plus tax/handling. With discount, prices are $20.25 over the phone and $21.50 online. Discounts cannot be combined. Not valid for previously purchased tickets. Subject to availability.)

Tickets: 404-588-0234 / www.TrueColorsTheatre.org

Groups: 404-588-0308, ext. 201

Season Sponsors: Odds On Records and Publishing, AirTran Airways, Black Gwinnett, Radio One Atlanta, The Kendeda Fund, Jazz 91.9, SpaceMax Storage
Production Sponsors: The Atlanta Journal-Constitution, The Coca-Cola Company, Georgia Power, Atlanta Daily World, Georgia Council for the Arts, Fulton County Board of Commissioners under the Guidance of the Fulton County Arts Council, City of Atlanta Bureau of Cultural Affairs

Note: Discount can also be used for 5/6, 5/9, and 5/10 performances. Blues for an Alabama Sky is on stage May 3 – 31, 2009.