FACULTY VACANCIES

Affiliate of the United Methodist Church

The Department of Educational Leadership in the School of Education at Clark Atlanta University invites applications for two tenure-track positions at the Assistant or Associate professor rank effective the Fall semester 2008.

Successful candidates will be expected to teach graduate level courses in Theory of Educational Leadership, Educational Policy Analysis, Urban School Leadership, Instructional Leadership, Qualitative Research Methods, Community/School Relations, and Curriculum Planning. Successful candidates will be expected to serve as academic adviser to students; serve on dissertation committees; serve on School of Education committees; and also serve on University-wide committees. In addition successful candidates will be expected to pursue a scholarly research agenda, participate in national and regional professional associations, and work cooperatively with colleagues in the P-12 and higher education arenas.

Candidates must have an earned doctorate in Educational Leadership, Policy Studies, Instructional Leadership or a related area of concentration. Special consideration will be given to candidates who have had successful teaching and leadership experience at the P-12 or postsecondary level. Emphasis will be given, also, to candidates who have experience in integrating technology into the instructional process, including Web-based and online instruction.

Candidates must have a strong commitment to serving as change agents for social justice in urban schools and communities in which one finds both diversity and multiculturalism.

Applicants must submit an application; resume; statement of interest; and names, addresses, and telephone numbers, and e-mail addresses of three primary references to:

Moses C. Norman, Ph.D., Chair
Department of Educational Leadership
Room 122 Thayer Hall
