Executive Director, Center for Cancer Research and Therapeutic Development

Applications and nominations are invited for the position of Executive Director of the Center for Cancer Research and Therapeutic Development (CCRTD) at Clark Atlanta University. CCRTD is the only University-wide Center of Excellence dedicated to basic and translational research, training of new generation of cancer scientists, and community outreach and education with a purpose of eliminating prostate cancer health disparities. As a consequence of targeted recruitment of faculty and staff over the past 17 years, CCRTD is currently one of the largest centers in the nation with a unique and comprehensive program to combat prostate cancer. Current core faculty have expertise in the areas of cell and molecular biology with a focus on understanding intracellular mechanisms that are involved in the development and progression of prostate cancer during different stages of the disease. Current expansion of the CCRTD is focused on recruiting scientists with expertise in drug discovery and delivery to target the above mechanisms. In addition, several faculty members from various departments are affiliated with Cancer Center whose research focuses on social and behavioral factors in prostate cancer health disparities.

The successful candidate for the Executive Director position must have an earned Ph.D. in a relevant area and significant research experience in the area of cancer biology and therapeutics and should be qualified to hold a tenured full professor position in a relevant academic department. The candidate is expected to have a funded research program in his/her area of research. The person sought is one with strong leadership and management skills gained in an academic or administration setting. The person should be currently involved in research with a significant funding history in cancer research, a commitment to developing a preeminent cancer research center with a student training component. Salary and benefits are competitive. Applications and nominations should include a cover letter, curriculum vita, and the name and contact information for three references submitted to:
