

CLARK ATLANTA UNIVERSITY

Job Description

Position Title:	Lecturer, Economics
Department:	Department of Economics, School of Business
Reports To:	Chair, Department of Economics

The following statements are intended to describe the general nature and level of work to be performed and are not intended to be construed as an exhaustive list of all responsibilities, duties and skills required of personnel so classified. All duties listed are essential functions for the position. It is understood that other related duties may be assigned.

General Function (Description):

The Clark Atlanta University School of Business invites applications for a Lecturer, Economics, beginning Fall 2025. We are seeking a dynamic and engaging educator with a passion for teaching and student development. The ideal candidate will demonstrate excellence in teaching, research potential, and meaningful engagement with students and the academic and professional economics community.

Examples of Duties and Responsibilities:

- Teach undergraduate and/or graduate courses in economics, including but not limited to Microeconomics and Macroeconomics.
- Deliver high-quality instruction in diverse teaching modalities (in-person, hybrid, and online) adapting to various learning styles and student needs.
- Provide academic advising and mentorship to undergraduate and graduate economics students, supporting their academic and career development.
- Serve as a faculty advisor for student organizations related to economics and public policy.
- Engage in scholarly research and contribute to the field of economics through publications in peer-reviewed academic and professional journals.
- Contribute to departmental, school, university, and professional service activities.
- Actively participate in service activities at the departmental, school, university, and professional levels.
- Integrate emerging technologies and innovative pedagogical approaches into economics instruction and curriculum development.
- Uphold the highest standards of professional ethics, academic integrity, and confidentiality in all responsibilities.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities:

- Demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching and active student engagement across diverse learning environments.
- Proficiency in instructional technologies and a willingness to incorporate innovative, student-centered pedagogical approaches.
- Ability to effectively advise, mentor, and support the academic and professional development of undergraduate and graduate students.
- Capacity to engage in meaningful research and contribute to the intellectual life of the department and broader academic community.
- Strong interpersonal, written, and verbal communication skills, with the ability to collaborate effectively with colleagues, students, and stakeholders.

Minimum Hiring Standards:

Minimum Education	Master's Degree in Economics or a closely related field (Applied Economics, Public Policy, Finance.)
Preferred Education	Ph.D. or ABD (All But Dissertation) in Economics, Applied Economics, Financial Economics, or a closely related discipline.
Years of Experience	Prior teaching experience at the college or university level.
Years of Management/Supervisor Experience	Demonstrated interest in scholarly research and academic engagement.

Clark Atlanta University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer